

Procom acquires British antenna manufacturer Skymasts Antennas Ltd.

Procom A/S, a leading manufacturer and supplier of specially designed antennas, filters and combiners, has acquired the prominent English antenna manufacturer Skymasts Antennas Ltd. The acquisition is part of an organic and acquisitive growth strategy initiated last autumn by Via Venture Partners who is the largest shareholder in Procom A/S.

Procom is rapidly expanding into new markets and new market segments. As a part of the Procom strategy, Procom has acquired the English company Skymasts Antennas Ltd, Northampton. Skymasts Antennas is a world-class, innovative and agile UK antenna manufacturer, supplying outstanding wireless base station antenna products and accessories to a truly global market.

Skymasts Antennas products are used within a wide range of industries and applications, within the frequency range of 25 MHz and 5.8 GHz. This ranges from small two-way communication systems or a simple wireless application, to large-scale and complex national infrastructure for both Civil, Public Safety and Defense applications.

Now Procom and Skymasts will cover a wide selection of industry sectors across Civil, First Responders and Defense wireless communications. Our commitment to the on-going research and development in the latest technologies ensures that the companies will continue to add value to these sectors working with some of the world's most respected OEMs, system integrators and network infrastructure operators.

Procom and Skymasts have both worked up a well-earned reputation for producing quality, reliable and innovative products for mission critical communication networks. As a consequence of this reputation, the companies are preferred suppliers to some of the world's largest Critical Communications infrastructures.
